Sure, there's being financially ready to buy a house, but are you emotionally ready? Even if it's just going to be your starter home, you're making a big financial commitment and putting down some roots.

You'll want to think about your other goals for the next few years. Are you buying with a partner, and if yes, are you on the same page when it comes to money? Is there any chance you'd need to relocate for work? Are you thinking of starting a family?

These big-picture questions can add to the pros (or cons) of whether this is the right time to buy a house.

Wondering if you should buy a house? Let's look at some of the factors that lenders and homeowners alike should consider.

INCOME AND EMPLOYMENT STATUS

Your lender won't just want to see how much money you make. They'll also want to see a work history (usually about 2 years) to make sure your income source is stable and reliable.

Preparing your income is all about pulling the right documentation together to show steady employment. If you're on the payroll, you'll likely just need to provide recent pay stubs and W-2s. On the other hand, you'll need to submit your tax returns and other documents the lender requests if you're self-employed.

Debt-to-income ratio (DTI) is another financial instrument mortgage lenders use to evaluate your loan application. Your DTI helps your lender see how much of your monthly income goes to debt so they can evaluate the amount of mortgage debt you can take on.

DTI is calculated by dividing your monthly debt by your gross monthly income. For example, if your monthly debts (credit card minimum payments, loan payments, etc.) total $2,000 per month and your gross monthly income is $6,000, your DTI is $$2,000/$6,000$, or 33%. Your lender will use the debts shown on your credit report to calculate your DTI.

Depending on the type of loan you're applying for, your lender may also calculate your housing expense ratio, also sometimes referred to as front-end DTI. This is a ratio that looks at your total monthly house payment (principal, interest, taxes and insurance) compared to your monthly income. For example, if you have a $1,200 house payment and the same $6,000 monthly income, your housing expense ratio is $$1,200/$6,000$, or 20%.

It's smart to review your DTI before you apply for a loan. In most cases, you'll need a back-end DTI of 43% or less to qualify for the most mortgage options, although this number varies based on your lender, loan type and other factors.

CREDIT HEALTH

Your credit score plays a huge role in what loans and interest rates you qualify for. Your credit score tells lenders how much of a risk you are to grant a loan.

Taking steps to improve your credit score and reduce your debt can pay off big as you prepare to get a mortgage. Better numbers mean better loan options with lower interest rates.

Your credit score is based on the following information:

- Your payment history
- The amount of money you owe
- The length of your credit history
- Types of credit you've used
- Your pursuit of new credit

What score will you need to qualify for a home loan? Most lenders require a credit score of at least 620 to qualify for the majority of loans. A score above 720 will generally get you the very best loan terms.

TIMING

Deciding whether it's a good time to buy a house or not depends on a variety of personal factors (such as financial readiness and lifestyle preferences) and market conditions (such as economic health and current mortgage rates).

Ultimately, the right time to buy a home comes down to your own unique situation. Be sure to consult a financial expert before making any big financial decisions such as buying a house.

Once you decide you're ready to buy a home, it's time to set a budget. A good place to begin is by calculating your DTI ratio. Look at your current debts and income and consider how much money you can reasonably afford to spend each month on a mortgage.

Homeownership comes with several costs you don't need to worry about while renting. You'll need to pay property taxes and maintain some form of homeowners insurance. Factor these expenses into your household budget when you decide how much you can afford on a house.

Mortgage lenders consider DTI an important qualifying factor. The amount of debt you have is considered a very reliable predictor of the risk associated with the approval of any mortgage loan. Therefore, it's important to know your numbers.

Let's look at how DTI is calculated.

Step 1: Add Up All Of Your Monthly Debts

Your debt payments could include:

- Monthly rent or house payments
- Monthly child support payments or alimony
- Student loan payments
- Car payments
- Monthly credit card minimum payments
- Any other debts you might have

You don't need to add in:

- Grocery bills
- Utility bills
- Taxes
- Any other bills that may vary month to month

Step 2: Divide Your Monthly Debts By Your Monthly Gross Income

DOWN PAYMENT

Your down payment is a large, one-time payment toward the purchase of a home. Many lenders require a down payment because it mitigates the loss they might suffer in the event that a borrower defaults on their mortgage.

Many home buyers believe that they need a 20% down payment to buy a home. This isn't true. Plus, a down payment of that size isn't realistic for many first-time home buyers.

Fortunately, there are many options for buyers who can't afford a 20% down payment. For example, you can get a conventional loan for as little as 3% down. Federal Housing Administration (FHA) loans have a minimum down payment of 3.5%. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) loans and United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) loans even allow eligible and qualified borrowers to put 0% down. In our state we have many down payment assistance programs.

Find Down Payment Money

ADVANTAGES OF 20% DOWN PAYMENT

There are advantages, however, to making a larger down payment. For one, it typically means you'll have more mortgage options. It also usually means you'll have a smaller monthly payment and a lower interest rate. Plus, if you put at least 20% down on a conventional loan, you won't need to pay for private mortgage insurance (PMI).

There are many ways to save for your home purchase, including through investments and savings accounts. If you have relatives who are willing to contribute money, you may be able to use gift money toward your down payment (in which case, be sure to provide your lender with a gift letter).

CLOSING COSTS

You'll also need to save money to cover closing costs – the fees you pay to get the loan. There are many variables that go into determining how much you'll pay for closing costs, but it's usually smart to prepare for 3 – 6% of the home value. This means that if you're buying a home worth $200,000, you might pay $6,000 – $12,000 in closing costs.

The specific closing costs will depend on your loan type, your lender, and where you live. Almost all homeowners will pay for things like appraisal fees and title insurance. If you take out a government-backed loan, you'll typically need to pay an insurance premium or funding fee upfront.

IMPORTANT!

Before you close on your loan, your lender will give you a document called a Closing Disclosure, which lists each of the closing costs you need to cover and how much you'll need to pay at closing. Look over your Closing Disclosure carefully before you close to know what to expect and to catch any errors.

Let's dive into a key update that could have a big impact on how people sell their homes! The recent NAR settlement brings a significant change: sellers are no longer required to offer compensation to buyer's agents when listing their home on the MLS.

UNDERSTANDING BUYER-BROKER AGREEMENTS

- Buyer Agreement Needed – You must sign a written agreement with your agent before touring a home.
- Clear Compensation Terms – The agreement must specify compensation, prohibit excess payments, and confirm commissions are negotiable.
- Seller Contributions Allowed – Sellers can offer agent compensation (not on MLS) and concessions like closing cost coverage.

HOW DOES THIS IMPACT BUYERS?

- Buyers may need to cover their agent's commission out of pocket if the seller doesn't offer compensation.
- Buyer's agents will now have signed agreements with their clients, clearly outlining their services and how they'll be paid.
- This shift may lead to buyers being more selective about working with agents or negotiating agent fees upfront.

SO, HOW WILL BUYER'S AGENTS GET PAID NOW?

- Buyer's agents can still receive compensation from the seller if the seller chooses to offer it.
- If no seller compensation is offered, buyers will need to pay their agents directly.
- In some cases, buyers may negotiate for the seller to cover their agent's fee as part of the purchase offer.

It's an important shift that puts more control in the hands of the seller, but it also changes the dynamics for buyers and agents alike. Being aware of these changes will help you navigate the market more strategically!

what you need to know

The real estate market is evolving, and as you explore your home-buying options, it's essential to stay informed about the changes shaping today's landscape.

The Current Commission Structure: In today's market, sellers aren't always covering the cost of your agent's commission. This means, as a buyer, you may be responsible for paying your own agent's fee.

What This Means for You: This shift gives you more control. You now have the flexibility to decide whether or not to hire an agent and can negotiate terms that work for you. It's all about finding what makes sense for your situation and structuring the arrangement that fits your needs.

what you need to know

With the recent changes in the real estate landscape, some buyers are considering going unrepresented in an effort to save on costs. It might seem like an attractive option at first glance, but let's talk about what that really means for you.

UNDERSTANDING THE TRADE-OFFS

While skipping an agent may save you money upfront, there are some important factors to consider when weighing the true value of professional representation:

- Exclusive market insights: Agents can give you access to off-market properties and the latest local data.
- Skilled negotiation: A seasoned agent can negotiate the best possible deal on your behalf.
- Navigating paperwork: Real estate contracts and processes can be overwhelming—having an expert can save you from costly mistakes.
- Time savings: Agents streamline the entire process, from property searching to closing, saving you precious time and effort.

YOUR CONCERNS MATTER

WE GET IT—COST IS A HUGE FACTOR, AND YOU'RE LIKELY WONDERING:

"IS HIRING AN AGENT WORTH THE INVESTMENT?"

"CAN I REALLY NAVIGATE THIS ON MY OWN?"

"WHAT RISKS AM I TAKING BY GOING UNREPRESENTED?"

THESE ARE ALL VALID QUESTIONS, AND WE'LL BREAK THEM DOWN TOGETHER. AS WE CONTINUE, WE WILL HELP YOU EXPLORE THE REALITIES OF GOING UNREPRESENTED AND THE VALUE THAT PROFESSIONAL GUIDANCE CAN BRING TO THE TABLE. LET'S MAKE SURE YOU'RE SET UP FOR SUCCESS!

Common challenges for unrepresented buyers

- 01 MARKET ACCESS:
How will you ensure you're seeing all available properties, including off-market listings?
- 02 PROPERTY VALUATION:
Can you accurately determine if a property is priced fairly for its condition and location?
- 03 NEGOTIATION:
Are you prepared to negotiate not just price, but terms, contingencies, and repairs?
- 04 LEGAL COMPLEXITIES:
Do you fully understand the contracts and disclosures you'll be signing?
- 05 TRANSACTION MANAGEMENT:
Can you effectively coordinate inspections, appraisals, and other crucial steps?
- 06 PROBLEM-SOLVING:
What's your plan for handling surprises that often arise during transactions?
- 07 TIME INVESTMENT:
Have you considered the time needed to manage all aspects of your purchase?
- 08 EMOTIONAL DISTANCE:
Can you remain objective about potentially the largest investment of your life?
- 09 INDUSTRY RELATIONSHIPS:
Do you have connections with inspectors, lenders, and other professionals you'll need?
- 10 POST-PURCHASE SUPPORT:
What will you do if issues arise after closing?

These are just some of the challenges that come with buying a home, and having the right knowledge and tools in place is crucial to ensuring a smooth and successful transaction. These questions aren't meant to scare you—they're here to help you make sure you're set up for success. Buying a home is a huge investment, and being fully prepared is key to making the process as smooth and stress-free as possible!

THE VALUE OF REPRESENTATION

You might be thinking, "I've got this! I'm great at negotiating, detail-oriented, and I understand contracts." And you know what? You're probably right. But here's something to consider:

EVEN THE PROS LEAN ON OTHER EXPERTS

Doctors still become patients when they need medical care.

Hairstylists let their colleagues handle their highlights.

Wedding planners hire other planners for their big day.

Why? Because there's real value in having someone fully dedicated to your success.

Let's put it this way: Would you represent yourself in court? Maybe—but wouldn't you rather have a skilled attorney, making sure everything is handled perfectly, saving you time, stress, and avoiding costly mistakes?

Buying a home is one of the biggest financial moves of your life. Just like you wouldn't head to court without a lawyer, navigating the home-buying process without an agent could leave you at a disadvantage. Having someone in your corner can make all the difference!

your advantage in today's market

When it comes to buying a home, you need more than just an agent—you need a strategic partner who's 100% committed to your success. - And ongoing support even after you've closed on your home.

With us, you're not just getting a home—you're getting a partner committed to making the process as seamless and successful as possible. Let's find your perfect home!

before you can apply for a mortgage, you'll need to decide what the best type of loan is for you and which one you'll qualify for.

CONVENTIONAL LOANS

Conventional loans are mortgages made by a private lender and not backed by the government. The most common type of conventional loans are loans that are backed by Fannie Mae or Freddie Mac, sometimes called conforming loans. The majority of mortgages in the U.S. are conventional loans. Conventional loans are always a popular option for home buyers, and you can get one with as little as 3% down.

FHA LOANS

Backed by the Federal Housing Administration, FHA loans are less of a risk for lenders because the government insures them if you stop making payments. As a result, FHA loans have credit score requirements that aren't as strict. You can get an FHA loan with a down payment as small as 3.5%.

VA LOANS

Backed by the Federal Housing Administration, FHA loans are less of a risk for lenders because the government insures them if you stop making payments. As a result, FHA loans have credit score requirements that aren't as strict. You can get an FHA loan with a down payment as small as 3.5%.

When you're ready to start house hunting, it's time to get preapproved for a mortgage. When you apply, your lender will give you a preapproval letter that states how much you're approved for based on your credit, assets, and income. You can show your preapproval letter to your real estate agent so they can help you find homes within your budget.

To get preapproved, you need to apply with your lender. The preapproval process typically involves answering some questions about your income, your assets, and the home you want to buy.

Pre-approvals are a dress rehearsal for your mortgage and are necessary to make a serious offer on a home. They typically expire after 90 days and can be refreshed if you don't find the home you're looking for in that time.

Know that pre-approvals don't guarantee your mortgage approval or interest rate. After you're pre-approved, avoid opening new credit lines or making large debt payments that can impact your FICO score.

Working with a lender to get preapproved for a mortgage is an important step in accurately determining your budget. A mortgage preapproval will give you real numbers since the lender will have detailed info about your finances. That includes a hard inquiry, which will show up on your credit report. The good news: If you apply with multiple lenders around the same time, it'll only count as one hard pull.

the search

Make a list of the things you'll need to have in the house. Ask yourself how many bedrooms and bathrooms you'll need and get an idea of how much space you desire. How big do you want the kitchen to be? Do you need lots of closets and cabinet space? Do you need a big yard for your kids and/or pets to play in?

Once you've made a list of your must-haves, don't forget to think about the kind of neighborhood you want, the types of schools in the area, the length of your commute to and from work, and the convenience of local shopping. Take into account your safety concerns as well as how good the rate of home appreciation is in the area.

Before you make an offer on a house there are three key elements that you'll want to have in place before you make an offer on a house.

The first is a mortgage preapproval from at least one lender. Ideally, you should get preapproved before you start looking at houses. It can be time-consuming to pull together all the required documents, but most importantly, a preapproval lets you know how much house you can afford. Having a preapproval in hand also lets the seller know that you're serious and provides reassurance that the deal will close. That can be extra helpful in a scenario where the seller is in a hurry to move.

Second, know your market to ensure you're making a competitive offer. This can be based on comparable sales, other market information from your own research, or a comparative market analysis provided by your real estate agent. You'll probably want to make an offer that's for slightly less than your preapproval amount, which leaves room to negotiate.

Last, verify that the down payment required by your lender is in the bank and ready to go. Simply having earmarked certain assets as the funds to buy a home (including the money required for the earnest deposit, down payment, closing costs, etc.) is not enough to ensure a smooth transaction. Having direct and immediate access to the cash is essential.

WHAT IS INCLUDED IN AN OFFER

A written offer may contain these elements, among others:

- Address: The home's legal address, and sometimes the legal property description.
- Price: Details regarding the purchase price and terms.
- Earnest money: The amount and terms regarding the earnest money, including its disposition upon the acceptance of the offer.
- Title: A stipulation that the seller will provide clear title to the property.
- Closing costs: Details regarding which party will pay closing costs or other fees, as well as how certain taxes and expenses will be prorated between the buyer and the seller at closing. (Some lenders may cap the amount of seller participation in these expenses.)
- The date and time of the offer's expiration: In hot markets, this can be mere hours, but in most cases, it's one or two days.
- A projected loan closing date: This is typically 30 to 60 days, though how long your lender's underwriting process takes can be the deciding factor here.
- Contingencies: Any contingencies that the deal is subject to (more on these in the next section).
- Disclosures: Other state-required provisions or disclosures.

COMMON CONTINGENCIES

Your written offer will likely include at least a couple of standard contingencies. These are things that need to happen before the sale can move forward. Common contingencies include:

- Final loan approval: In other words, you get the mortgage, often within a specified amount of time.
- Home inspection: In addition to requiring that the property undergo a home inspection, this contingency may also specify how issues revealed during the inspection will be addressed (for example, if the seller will repair or provide a credit at closing), or if the inspection is for informational purposes only.
- Appraisal: Lenders generally insist on verification of the home's value via an appraisal, as they don't want to lend you more than the property is worth.
- Home sale: This is a less common contingency that means the purchase relies on the completion of another, separate transaction. This is usually either the sale of your current home or the seller finding a new home.

Although you have to protect your interests and gather enough information to make a wise purchase, contingencies may act as roadblocks to getting a deal done — especially in hot markets. It's best for both the buyer and the seller to put only enough stipulations in the contract to cover the necessary bases; no more.

You know the property you want to buy and how much you'll have to pay for it. Now you'll choose a lender to get a mortgage from (you can go with a lender that preapproved you or start fresh with a different one).

This is a paperwork-heavy process, so get ready to do a lot of uploading. Here's what you're likely to need:

- W-2 forms from the past two years (possibly more, if you've changed employers).
- Pay stubs from the past 30 to 60 days.
- Proof of other sources of income (including documentation of any gift money).
- Federal income tax returns from the past two years.
- Recent bank statements (usually for the last couple of months).
- Details on long-term debts like car or student loans.
- ID and Social Security number.

Once your mortgage application is complete, you'll go into underwriting. During this process, the lender makes a final decision on whether to give you the loan — it's basically making sure there's not anything about the deal that's just too risky.

Underwriting includes digging deep into your finances, so you may need to come up with even more documents. The lender will also look at the home you've chosen via an appraisal and request a title search.

FINALIZE HOME INSURANCE

It might feel a little strange to take out an insurance policy on a home you don't actually own yet, but most lenders make securing homeowners insurance a condition of giving you a mortgage. You'll want enough coverage to fully replace the home (which might not be the same as your purchase price or the appraised value), and typically the policy should become effective on your closing date.

ORDER AND ATTEND INSPECTION

A basic home inspection can raise issues you might face down the road and point out any necessary repairs. This visual assessment covers all aspects of the house and its systems, from the foundation to the roof. If you have a particular concern, like mold or radon, you may want to get one of the more specialized types of home inspections in addition to a standard inspection.

You choose the home inspector and pay for the home inspection. We will provide you with a vendor list of local Home Inspection Companies. We recommend that you attend the inspection as the inspector will explain many elements of the home, so that you can be prepared in the future as to what to look for as far as maintenance is concerned. We will, also, be there. If it uncovers problems that weren't included in the seller's disclosures, you may be able to negotiate with the seller

When your home is under contract, you can't move forward with the sale until an appraisal is done on your home.

The outcome can affect whether or not you make it to closing and whether the price in the offer is the price you'll end up with on settlement day.

We go the extra mile during this phase of being under contract, meeting the appraiser at your home, and creating an information packet that helps the appraiser have all the information he or she needs for a favorable outcome.

You don't want the appraised value of your home to come in below the price you've negotiated with the buyer, so we have a very specific process for making sure that doesn't happen!

Though some items, like prorating property taxes or HOA fees, will already have been addressed in your offer letter, you may still have some items to negotiate before closing.

Your ability to negotiate can hinge on what kind of market you're facing. In a strong seller's market, it can be difficult to get concessions, since the seller can simply go to their next offer. But if it's an issue that will come up with any buyer — for example, a necessary repair that will get flagged by any home inspector — you may still have leverage.

Asking for a credit at closing rather than for the seller to complete needed repairs can help keep the transaction moving. The seller simply rebates you an agreed-upon amount for specific improvements. That can save you a bit of cash at closing, plus handling the repairs yourself (whether DIY or with a pro) ensures the work will be done to your satisfaction.

CLOSING DAY

Closing is when you sign ownership and insurance paperwork and you receive your new home's keys! Typically, closing takes four to six weeks. During this time, purchase funds are held in escrow, where your money is held safe until the transaction is complete.

FINAL WALK-THROUGH

We will do a final walk of the home within 24 hours of closing to check the property's condition. This final inspection takes about an hour. We will make sure any repair work that the seller agreed to make has been done.

We will be sure to:

- Make sure all appliances are working properly
- Run the water in all the faucets and check for any possible leaks
- Open and close garage doors with opener
- Flush toilets
- Run the garbage disposal and exhaust fans

CLOSING TABLE

Who will be there:

- Your agent
- Escrow Agent
- Your loan officer

BRING TO CLOSING

- Government-issued photo ID
- Copy of the sales contract

RECEIVE YOUR KEYS

Congratulations! It was a lot of hard work but you are now officially homeowners!! Time to throw a party and get to know your new neighbors!
